the Administration have suffered another crushing defeat on their farm program. Within days after Congress voted down the Freeman bill, turkey farmers "stunned" the bureaucrats by turning down a program for production quotas, Federal price-fixing and subsidies on turkeys.

Congress represents the people, and the turkey farmers represent themselves. The utterances of the American Farm Bureau Federation indicate that most farmers feel pretty much the way turkey farmers do.

If the people don't want a subsidy and control approach to farming, and the farmers don't want it, who does and Mostly, politicians want it. Partly, this is because they retain their childish faith that Federally-managed agriculture will work in the end, although there is 30 years of sad experience to refute this. And partly they like the political advantage of being able to issue Federal treasury checks to vast numbers of voters.

Of course, Secretary Freeman refuses to be cowed. He is back again with an "emergency" program, which is largely his unsuccessful feed grain program of last year, warmed over.

The Farm Bureau points out that the Agriculture Secretary Freeman and costly 1961 feed grains program did cut the production of some crops, but that farmers have to grow something and were encouraged to grow soy beans by an increase in the support price. Therefore, overall production of feed grains dropped by a mere 4.3 per cent, but because of the larger production of high-support soy beans, there was no big reduction in costs for the Administration to point to.

In the end, the feed grain program, which was to have cost $500 million, actually cost $800 million. So the program did less and cost more than was claimed for it, has demonstrated that it takes the wrong approach, and shouldn't be re-enacted on an "emergency" or any other basis.

The Farm Bureau recommends that the Government get on with the crop land retirement program and work under existing legislation, with an eye to eventual return to free-market farming.

They see broad world markets for American farm products within reach if only Government programs do not keep our prices above world prices. They would like to get off the Government dole, now that direct payments have reached $1,700 per farm and farmers can hardly feed a chick without looking up the control regulation.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Label Of A Loser

The New York Republican Senator, who first proposed an advisory "All Republican Conference" to inspire the troops of the out-of-power GOP in battles with the Kennedy Administration and the Democrats, said that what his party really needs is a new "image" and a new public relations approach.

Sen. Kenneth Keating called upon his party to combat the cliches of "those rich Republicans" and "those Republican obstructionists."

The New York Senator has something there. But the outing by GOP brasshats on President Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm this past weekend did little to brighten up the party's image.

Businessmen of the United States, unite! Ike said in effect. Get into poli- he talks today. Senator Keating and tics and fight for the GOP, because it is "the party of business," and he's proud that it has this label.

The more politically sensitive and realistic Governor Rockefeller of New York and the politically hopeful William Scranton of Pennsylvania, who wants to be our next Governor, subscribe neither to Ike's description nor his special pride.

And with good cause and good reason. The emphasis at the "All Republican Conference" last weekend should have been on the very first word. If the GOP ever is to return to power in Harrisburg and at Washington, it will have to be recognized as "the party of the people" -all the people.

Dwight D. Eisenhower would have remained a famous General, nothing more, had he talked about being so proud of "the party of business" in 1952 as hard-pressed Republican candidates in Pennsylvania and elsewhere now have one more label to overcome along with "those rich Republicans."

The New York officials of the Federal government ought to be held responsible for Soblen's escape. He was free in $100,000 bail but jumped it. How does it happen that a spy is freed in so little bail? What civil liberties question was involved to justify putting up the bail on the ground of civil liberties?

I make this point because public officials, like private orators, have not yet adjusted their minds to the warlike character of the present phase of our relations with Soviet Russia. Every Communist must be regarded as a hateful agent of Soviet Russia, but there are more spies than there are Communists. The espionage network in this country ought to be brought to the surface and spies should be imprisoned.

This has nothing to do with juries. fear. It has much to do with common sense. It has nothing to do with boycott, although I am sure that boycott is a most wholesome response to public activities. For instance, I boycott Polish hams. We, in the United States, produce all the hams we require. I have no intention of buying the goods of anybody whom I dislike. There are other goods to buy.

It has now become established by law that to call a man a Communist, unless he admits it, is libellous. That is a misunderstanding of Communism. It is all right to refer to a man as a Republican, a Democrat, a Nazi, or even an S.O.B. Well, don't call him anything - just boycott to manage HEW Secretary Ribicoff's senatorial campaign. Bailey is saying he intends to help on that, but not give up the national chairmanship. . . . . . Defense Secretary McNamara is making a lot of use of the Navy's yacht SEQUOIA to woo congressional backing for his embattled plan to sharply cut National Guard and Reserve forces. Members of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees have been taken on yacht trips down the Potomac with McNamara and other Pentagon leaders in an effort to win support for their proposal. ## Seat Belts To Be Required

LONDON (AP) - The British government will require all new automobiles to be fitted with safety belts for the driver and dent of the East Pennsylvania front-seat passenger.

John Hay, parliamentary secretary to the Ministry of Transport, told a House of Commons committee yesterday that statistic showed safety belts could reduce half. This might save 1,000 lives and 50,000 injuries in Britain

A spokesman later explained that it would not be compulsory for motorists to wear the belts. Compulsion to fasten the belts is considered unenforceable by law.

For instance: on June 17th, Igor Stravinsky reached his 80th birthday, and Doubleday & Company announced that a fourth volume about him, almost entirely autobiographical, is in the making and will be published in 1963. The last of the series was published in March of this year under the title, "Expositions and Developments" and was the most personal to appear thus far, including a stringent analysis by Stravinsky of criticism of his work by two New York composers.

Another Doubleday book, "Men and Decisions" will appear today. It is a record of living American history by Lewis L. Strauss, covering his experiences from the time the Admiral joined the personal staff of Herbert Hoover at age 21, until the present. In this volume, Strauss describes some of the outstanding figures of our time, with whom he has dealt through the years ... such personalities as Presidents Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower, also Winston Churchill, Scientists Einstein and Fermi, and political figures such as Forresstal, Taft, and Stimson. Lewis L. Strauss began his career as a traveling salesman of shoes, and became Herbert Hoover's unpaid secretary in 1917 when the future president was undertaking the world's first massive food relief program. So you see, this is a true American success story, bound neatly between the covers of a volume that former President Hoover de-dents of hitherto undisclosed history. Then, for those intrigued by the supernatural, Doubleday will, on July 6th, release a book by T. C. Lethbridge with the fascinating title, "Ghost and Ghoul." The author describes his meetings with two ghosts, among other things, and arrives at the conclusion that "there is no such things as the supernatural" ... that "all things conform to natural laws even though some of the laws have yet to be discovered."

On the same date, another book is due . . . and this, I would wager, will be among the best sellers of the next few months. It is called, "A Portrait of Joan", and was written by Jane Kesner Ardmore in collaboration with Joan Crawford. Miss Crawford has lived another fabulous American success story that has taken her a long, long way from the turbulent, rather insecure life she knew as a child and has made her an enduring symbol of GLAMOUR, in capital letters. So great has been Joan Crawford's hold on the public, that whether or not she appears in films or TV over a period of years. she still remains a Star, undimmed in the eyes of her fans. Right now she is back before the cameras. She is also doing a tireless job public-relationwise for Pepsi-Cola, having been named the first woman member of the Board of Directors, following the death of her husband, Pepsi President Alfred Steele. Those who consider movie fame a transient thing, might be interested in knowing that Joan Crawford today receives more than 10,000 letters a month and is making three films this Summer.

Another book which promises to be of widespread interest is a recent Atheneum publication . . . "The White House Saga" by Nanette Kutner. It is the story of our Government's mansion from its early days, written with a love and appreciation of the people who have lived there, and is filled with delightful anecdotes. This, and a few other books named above, are already on my reading list for the next few months. If you agree, we'll have lots to discuss next time we meet!

Savings Vs. Stocks

By William A. Doyle

Q. I had about $10,000 in a savings account, at four per cent Interest. But I was told to buy some good common stocks that would grow in value faster than inflation would eat away at the value of my dollars. So, I bought such stocks as Corn Products, New England Electric, Philadelphia Electric, Pacific Gas & Electric and United Fruit. That
